The 60th Commission on the Status of Women (CSW60) 14 - 24 March 2016, New York
CSW60 is the principal United Nations gender meeting of the year, where states and civil society come together to review progress on women’s rights. The GWI President Catherine Bell and Graduate Women International (GWI) members from all over the world will attend CSW60 to ensure that its mission, the empowerment of women and girls through lifelong quality education, is visible and promoted at the highest levels. GWI will be calling for a greater acknowledgement of the value of women teachers as a way of encouraging girls to complete secondary education in some regions, and advocating for the enrolment of girls and women in science, technology and innovation programmes worldwide in order to increase their access to the socio-economic benefits of science and technology. Read GWI’s written statement submitted to the CSW 60th session here.

GWI’s National Federations and Associations also hosting events at CSW60 in New York
GWI is proud to announce that several of its national federations and associations (NFAs) are co-hosting side and parallel events at the CSW60 in line with the priority theme for 2016, Women’s empowerment and its link to sustainable development, and on the review theme for the year, The elimination and prevention of all forms of violence against women and girls. The Finnish Federation of Graduate Women is hosting a side event, and Women Graduates – USA are hosting two parallel workshops and sponsoring a third. The Rwandan Association of University Women (RAUW) and the Australian Federation of Graduate Women (AFGW) are also hosting a joint workshop together. GWI and its NFAs welcome the opportunity to share advocacy news and success stories and network at the annual CSW.

New report on the gender pay gap between men and women in vocational education in Poland
The gender pay gap in Poland can only in part be explained by factors such as level of education, job seniority, experience and breaks in employment relating to child care. They indicate that women earn less than men irrespective of the level of education, economic sector, professional field and the size of an enterprise. There are very few occupations where the average pay of women is equal or higher than men’s pay. See the full report here. GWI advocates for enabling access to education for girls and women to enlarge a country’s labour force and to increase their GDP, as well as economic empowerment for girls and women.
